

Logan Indoor Sports Centre

The new Logan Indoor Sports Centre is set to become one of South East Queensland's largest, fully accessible, multi-purpose sports centres, and is proposed as a centrepiece of the vibrant Civic and Community Precinct at Logan Central.

Strategically located in one of the region's fastest growing areas, the nine-court venue will provide a sporting legacy to the Logan community.

Designed to provide participation opportunities in a diverse range of indoor sports, the centre will host a variety of sports and provide capacity for 7,000 spectators during the Games.

Beyond the Games, the Logan Indoor Sports Centre will be a dynamic community hub for sport and events. Local schools, clubs, and community members will have access to world-class and accessible facilities, encouraging a new generation of athletes and active communities.

Features and benefits

Servicing the rapidly growing community

As Logan's largest piece of community sporting infrastructure, the new indoor sports centre will address the needs of a growing local population expected to reach more than 500,000 by 2041.

A legacy for the region

Beyond the Games, the new centre will serve as a key sporting and community hub, with nine courts across two halls, able to host a range of sports and community events.

Local economic boost

This project will support a raft of job opportunities during its two-year construction phase, including opportunities for apprentices and trainees.
